Lindenhurst village administrator for the past 23 years, James Stevens, is retiring in April. Over the years, Stevens has seen the village double in size.

Stevens to leave Lindenhurst

Village administrator says he'll miss dealing with residents

By JOSEPH MULLER
jmuller@nwnewsgroup.com

LINDENHURST — Lindenhurst Village Administrator James Stevens soon will retire after 23 years of service.

During his career, he oversaw the development of Lindenhurst as it more than doubled in population, from about 7,000 to roughly 15,500.

"It's fulfilling to see the community develop in size," Stevens said.

Stevens was hired in Lindenhurst after doing a similar job in Schererville, Ind. He learned about Lindenhurst from his parents, who lived in the area, and decided to apply for the job after seeing an advertisement.

When Stevens started working as village administrator, he was mainly concerned with developing Lindenhurst's commercial market and diversifying the village's housing. Rather than offering prospective residents only one type of housing, Stevens worked to provide more expensive housing for people who were interested.

To expand Lindenhurst's commercial market, Stevens has been working hard to push forward Lindenhurst's Village Green Plan, in which a new 461,000 square foot open-air lifestyle center will meet Lindenhurst's shopping needs.

"This will help bring a lot of attention to Lindenhurst," he said.

Mayor Susan Lahr said Stevens' 23 years of experience working in Lindenhurst helped him gain a deep understanding of the area.

"People get advice from him all the time," Lahr added.

Lahr said Stevens' experience also has made Lindenhurst into a financially sound community.

"Other villages are not as financially tight," Lahr said.

Stevens said he will miss working with the public the most. Lahr said Stevens goes above and beyond his job description when it comes to interacting with the public, attending Lakes Commission, zoning board and Chamber of Commerce meetings.

Stevens said he also will miss interacting with his co-workers, who are all vital in making a Lindenhurst a good place to live.

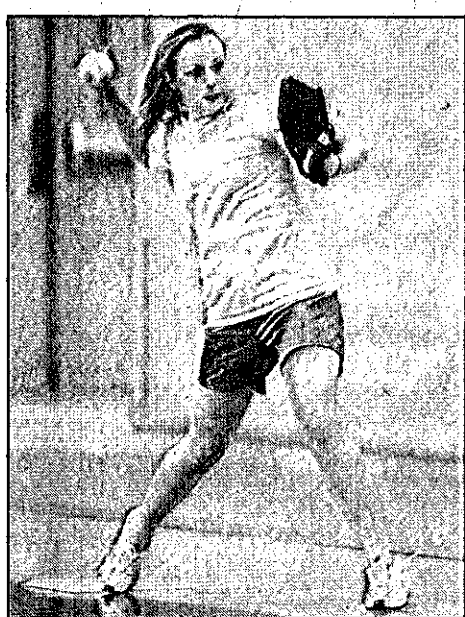

Out of all Stevens' qualities, Lahr said, she will not forget his humor.

"He puts a very conservative front, but when you get to know him, he's a funny guy," Lahr said.

During his retirement, Stevens said he will enjoy his newfound free time with his wife.

"My wife and I are looking forward to doing something different with the rest of our lives," he said.

Ice cream beats a trophy any day of the week

On Tuesday, I was the master of ceremonies at the Lake County Spelling Bee, which was sponsored by the Lake County Journals at the Lake County Regional Office of Education.

I'd like to congratulate Anne-Marie Kommers, who won the competition after spelling parasol correctly.

She won a seven-day trip to the Scripps National Spelling Bee in Washington D.C., a prize that was sponsored by the Lake County Journals.

I also want to thank second-place finisher Amy Sebastian who might not have won, but certainly was the most impressive with the speed and the assuredness of her answers.

Joe
Grace

She was a spelling machine.

The other participants included Greg Baseley, Kyle Baum, Josh Bell, Anna Burgos, Celestial Calderon, Rohan Dasika, Kacie Griffith, Josh Lam, Michelle Liu and Jocelyn Santiago.

You all did wonderful!

And you can watch these terrific spellers in the multimedia section at LakeCountyJournals.com.

It was just a fun night and brought back fond memories of when I was younger and participating in my area's spelling bee.

My schools' principal drove me to the event, which was going to be broadcast on one of our local radio stations. Everyone in my hometown of Evansville, Ind., would know what a great speller I was. It was my time to shine.

At least it was until I misspelled the very first word I was given. It was an easy word, but I forgot to ask for it to be used in a sentence and I gave the wrong answer.

It would have been a devastating blow to my still-young ego had my principal not stopped and bought me ice cream on the way back to school.

She was a wonderful, wonderful lady.

And that day, I came to a very important realization. Ice cream, my friends, is vastly better than any trophy.

Especially if it's mint chocolate.

Emmons School welcomes new superintendent

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — Matt Tabar has been running the show at Emmons School District 33 for 18 years, but with his retirement at the end of this year, the school will welcome Dr. Robert Machak as his replacement.

Machak will begin as the new superintendent July 1, and Emmons wanted to make sure he knew the community was excited for him to be an Emmons Raider.

"This is a wonderful school district," Machak said March 13 at the Meet the New Superintendent event.

Machak thanked the people there for welcoming him, along with his wife, Kathy, for being so patient with him.

To welcome Machak, school officials had snacks, drinks and a cake on hand.

But Tabar had something special just for Machak.

Tabar presented Machak with an emergency kit, which included a plunger, gloves, duct tape, colored tape, a hammer, school board information, and a tie with a school bus on it.

Machak also received another gift — an Emmons School sweatshirt.

The students, faculty and parents cheered when Machak put on the sweatshirt.

They also cheered when they heard he is a Bears fan, but there was some mixed cheers and boos when they heard he is a Sox fan.

Machak comes from a school in Northbrook where he is principal and assistant superintendent. He said he had not intended to leave Northbrook because he enjoyed his time there, but saw a benefit to coming to Emmons.

"This was something positive to move toward," he said.

Machak might be coming from Northbrook, but he still has Lake County ties.

He is originally from Waukegan and is a Carmel Catholic High School graduate.

Machak said he remembered Antioch from when he was teaching at Mundelein High School and he was fond of the area.

The school board also was a topic Machak discussed. He said at first he will spend a lot of time listening to them. He also said to make changes the right people need to be on board or it won't happen.

"You all are the right people on board," he said.

Tabar said he is pleased with his replacement.

"It sounds like he'll fit right in," he said.

Know a hero; tell Antioch High School

Antioch Community High School is looking for some local heroes: The school is making a permanent display of students who graduated from Antioch High School since 2001 and then went on to join the military.

Photos of military officers can be dropped off in the main office and should include the hero's name and branch of service.

The school would prefer photos to be of former students in their uniforms.

All pictures will be scanned for display and returned to the address provided.

To e-mail pictures, send them to dweber@sequoia.com.

Questions can be addressed to Deborah Surroz-Weber at 847-838-7762.

So don't forget to give those heroes the recognition they deserve.

New faces keep popping up in Antioch. School District 34 recently welcomed its newest board member, Ken Miller.

Ken was selected to fill the vacancy of Theresa Kovach at a special meeting Feb. 25 from a group of five applicants.

Miller is the father of three children and his wife is the co-chair of the district's food allergy committee and she is active in the Parent-Teacher Organizations.

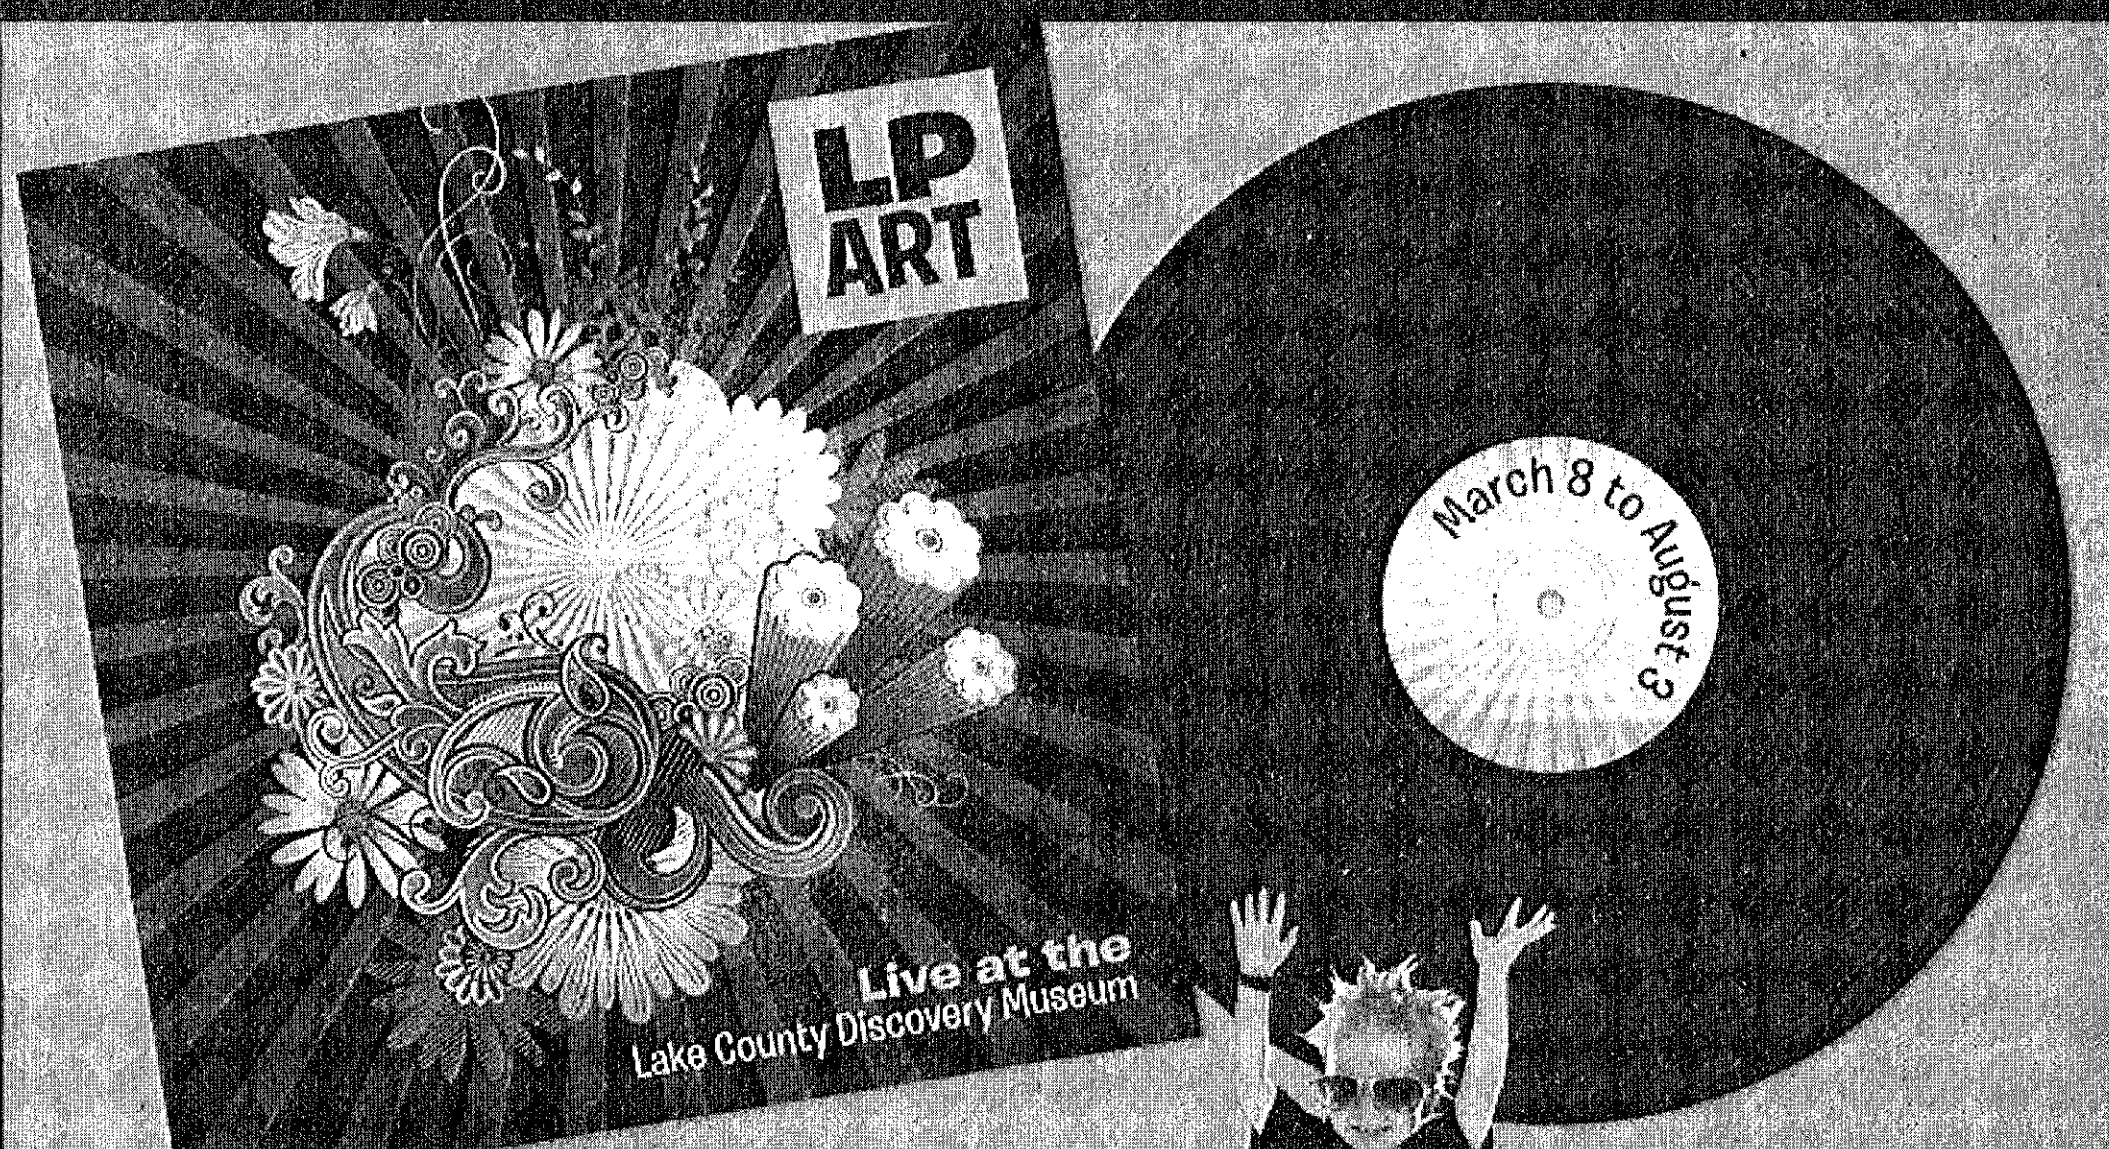

Ken will serve out Kovach's term, which is through April 2009.

Join me in welcoming Ken to the board.

An eye-opening experience

Residents comment on Hastings Forest Preserve at open house

By JOSEPH MULLER
jmuller@nwnewsgroup.com

LAKE VILLA — Lake County is doing all it can to make sure the future Hastings Lake Forest Preserve fits the tastes of its users. One way it did that was with the second of three open houses where residents offered suggestions at the Antioch/Lake Villa Township Center on March 11.

Lake County Forest Preserve Planner Susan Hall said more than 50 participants shared their preferences.

"The night confirmed what people were interested in from previous surveys," Hall said.

The county tested three concepts in the open house. Each plan had different levels of development according to the tastes of Lake County residents.

"All three plans offer good opportunities," Lake County Forest Preserve Executive Director Tom Hahn said.

The county collected its data from a previous open house on Oct. 15, 2007 and an attitude and interest survey given by the Richard Day Research, Inc. during Sept., 2005.

According to both surveys, residents were most interested in using the preserve's trails. During the current open house, the county learned more about what types of trails people wanted, and, where different trails should go.

"There was a mix of what people wanted for trails," Hall said.

"Crushed gravel is better for running," said Ed Pansczyk, who plans to use the trails for jogging and bicycling.

Many people liked asphalt trails because they can not only be used for roller skating and bicycling, but can also be plowed for use during the winter.

"They were very successful at Independence Grove," Hall said.

According to the previous Oct. open house, canoeing and kayaking came as the second most preferred activity at the preserve. And as a result, all three proposals have a car-top boating dock and three fishing piers.

"People think the lake is beautiful, and they want access," Hall said.

However, people will not have to worry about people disturbing the Lake's environment, because only boats that can fit on top of a car are allowed in the Lake.

Mark Shiel, a resident who lives close to the preserve, was concerned about losing access to the preserve. Lake County Forest Preserve officials assured Shiel that fences would only be used as a preventative measure for unwanted activity. From this open house's input, Lake County Forest Preserve officials will make a master concept. Citizens can comment on this plan during another open house in late spring.

Hillcrest program benefits both students, teachers

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — Sometimes teachers are the students. At Hillcrest Elementary School in Antioch, that was the case March 12.

Teachers were receiving research-based training on Guided Reading by Gretchen Courtney and Associates. Because of the training, the school was going to need substitute teachers in all of the first- and second-grade classrooms.

Principal Dawn Benatis said the school would need about 42 substitutes and it was just too many for the school to get. So school officials came up with another idea.

That idea was "The Show Must Go On."

The program took place after lunch until 2:30 p.m., where students participated in four engaging center activities managed by certified staff members and teaching assistants.

The four stations were math, music/reading, literacy, and shared reading.

Benatis said the school came up with the idea because of an important reason.

"Wanting to make sure we're meeting the needs of learners," she said.

Students were at each station for about 20 minutes before advancing to the next one.

"It was absolutely a success," Benatis said.

As of March 14, Benatis said she hadn't gotten any feedback from parents on their take of the program.

"We're working to expand this throughout the district," Benatis said.

Hillcrest is in District 34, which also includes Antioch Elementary, Antioch Upper Grade, Oakland Elementary and W.C. Petty Elementary.

Mick Santullano of Fox Lake recently wrote "Humanitaria and the Future of the Human Being."

From scraps to publication

Local author's book accepted into Lake Villa library

By JOE GRACE
jgrace@nwnetnews.com

LAKE VILLA — A garbage bag full of scraps of paper has gone a long way for Mick Santullano of Fox Lake.

Those scraps — filled with words that were compiled during Santullano's time at college — were the foundation of his book, "Humanitaria and the Future of the Human Being," which recently got accepted into the Lake Villa Public Library. Santullano, who is in his 40s, is hoping this entry into an area library is just the beginning of the book's dissemination throughout Lake County, the state, the country, and maybe even the world.

"I want to get that good feeling of lots of people liking it," Santullano said.

And it starts with one.

"If [Lake Villa Public Library] took it, maybe it's something to look at," Santullano said of the thought process he hopes other libraries take.

The book was printed by an independent publisher in 2004 at a cost of $500 for Santullano. He said he has since sold almost 1,000 copies of the book.

"I know I have this audience," said Santullano, who is looking for a nationwide publisher.

He said he buys boxes of 25 of them at $13 a book and sells them at $15-$20. Not much in the way of profit, there. And it's even less than that when you consider that some of them have been taken without payment. Not that Santullano thinks that's necessarily a bad thing.

"You know your art is good when people steal it," he said.

Santullano, who used to live in Wauconda, holds his book with pride. It is not your typical library fare. While it's not poetry, it's written in verse form and Santullano uses only capital letters.

"I've cut out all of the deadwood," he said.

A songwriter as well as an author, Santullano said writing in all caps presents a bold approach to a message.

The book has no vulgarity and doesn't tackle politics or religion.

"I tried to write it so that anybody could understand it, not just intellectuals," Santullano said.

You can purchase the book online at borders.com, barnesandnoble.com or amazon.com.

"I told myself I was done with this about 12 times."

But he wasn't about to quit. He had kept that garbage bag around for far too long.

"I wrote it down and got it off my chest," he said.

Parenthood equals more brain power

I used to think that becoming a parent had done some damage to my brain. Symptoms included the inability to use big words, tendency to repeat the same requests over and over and foggy short-term memory.

I call this the "dumbing-down" effect of having children.

It is quite possibly a biological result of pregnancy. When I was pregnant, I would come home to find a gallon of milk from breakfast on the counter and my tube of mascara inside the refrigerator.

Some mornings, I would forget to brush my teeth. When I did remember, there were precarious near misses between the toothpaste and the tube of diaper cream.

By the end of nine months, I barely could put together an intelligent thought.

But what about the forgetfulness of dads, you might ask? What is their excuse, since they do not get to personally experience the joy, miracle and stretch marks of pregnancy?

Why can they not remember to take out the garbage or pick up their socks? Well, I think their manly brains are just too full of other hugely important details: vital tidbits such as sports statistics, off-color jokes and movie lines from all those Hollywood classics starring Chevy Chase.

After the kids were born, I rebounded somewhat by becoming a compulsive list-maker. I also was careful to always diaper the correct end of the baby and only once did I absentmindedly attempt to administer the dog's medicine to my toddler. (The look on his face when I almost stuck a pill covered in peanut butter to the roof of his mouth is one memory I won't forget.)

Lately, though, I have started to think that being a parent actually can make us smarter.

For example, recently my sons and I investigated the history of the Blarney Stone and the exact definition of a total eclipse of the moon.

And becoming a parent means visits to museums, and bedtime stories about the life cycle of a frog start to replace trips to the mall and quality time with People magazine.

I think my kids' inquisitive minds definitely have enriched my own, even if I have to write it all down to remember the details.

SOS

Keep some basic tips in mind when heading into the housing market

By GENEVA WHITE
gwhite@nwnewsgroup.com

Since November, Trina and Dave Helsom have been on a quest to find the perfect house.

In what real estate experts are calling a "buyers' market," the Helsoms can afford to take their time. They're hoping to find a home on more than one acre where their chocolate Lab and two boys, ages 8 and 9, can roam free. But the Helsoms also must sell their four-bedroom house in Crystal Lake before they can settle into their dream home.

"We know we'll get less now than what we would have a couple of years ago," Trina Helsom said. "But we also know we'll be able to buy [a home] for less than what we would have. We're optimistic that what we're looking for will be out there."

As buyers look to take advantage of some of the deals on the market, real estate experts say there is plenty to consider before buying a house. They, along with experienced homeowners like the Helsoms, offer these tips:

Seek the help of a professional real estate agent

Working with an agent can simplify house hunting, said John Veneris, regional vice president for the National Association of Realtors. In addition to having knowledge of the area where you're looking, the agent can offer tools to help with the home selection process. He or she also can recommend lenders and assist in deciding on an offer, said Veneris, who's the owner/broker of Realty Executives Pro/Team in Downers Grove.

"They are the ones who will be able to negotiate the best price for you," he said. "They do it all the time."

Be specific

Are walkability and schools important to you? Are certain communities completely out of the question, no matter how good the home price? Then make those points clear.

In addition to wanting the home to be on more than one acre, Helsom said she and her husband want to remain in District 47. They also don't want the home they buy to be obstructed by power lines or be near train tracks.

"Be honest about what you're looking for," Helsom said. "The more specific you can be with [agents], the better they can be for you."

Work only with reputable lenders

Did you hear some radio ad offering a loan that sounds almost too good to be true? Then chances are, it probably is.

"Some less quality lenders might say, 'We've got a great rate for you,'" said Mary Lu Seidel, executive director of the Corporation for Affordable Homes of McHenry County. "You don't really see they've built in all these funky little fees that can cost you anywhere from $3,000 to $4,000."

An egg-cellent brunch

By JEAN KRESSY
editorial@relishmag.com

Shrimp salad and popovers are a terrific combination that would never have occurred to most people. The recipes appeared in a spring issue of Relish, and one of our editors thought it was the perfect combo for Easter brunch with her in-laws.

Shrimp salad (Serves 6)

Ingredients
2 pounds cooked shrimp, peeled and chopped
1 cup grape tomato halves
3/4 cup light mayonnaise

1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill, chives or tarragon

Directions
Combine all ingredients; mix gently. Serve with popovers.

Popovers

Yield: 6 popovers

Ingredients
1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup 2-percent reduced-fat milk

Directions

Preheat oven to 450 degrees Fahrenheit. Grease a 6-cup muffin or popover tin.

Mix flour and salt together in a medium mixing bowl. Combine eggs and milk; blend well. Add to flour mixture and stirring with a whisk until blended.

Divide batter among prepared popover cups. Bake 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 F and bake 20 minutes. Do not open oven door during baking process. Serve immediately.

2008 Lake County Tax Guide

Beware of costly tax refund loans

For many consumers, tax time can mean a nice cash windfall in the form of a tax refund check.

Oftentimes, before the money even is in our hands it already is spent in our heads. Will it be used to pay off credit card bills? Take the family to Disney World? Fix the roof?

Many taxpayers are so eager to get their refund money they take out refund anticipation loans, often referred to as "instant refunds," "rapid refunds" or "refund anticipation checks." But consumers need to beware of these cash advances from lenders, since they often come with hefty triple digit interest rates, warn the experts at the Family Credit Management Service (FCMS).

"These dangerous loans prey on those who are most vulnerable by convincing them to take out a loan on money that is already theirs," says Michael McAuliffe, President of FCMS. "Most people wouldn't consider a credit card with a 700 percent interest rate, why should they pay those same rates to receive their tax refunds a couple days earlier?"

It sounds great — for a fee you can get your tax refund instantly, rather than waiting for the check to arrive by mail. However this fee usually isn't worth it, since most taxpayers can get their refunds within two weeks or less without having turn to these pricey refund anticipation loans.

That's why the FCMS is strongly advising consumers to avoid these loans at all costs this year. This can be done by filing your tax return electronically and requesting your refund be directly deposited to a bank account.

For details on the Internal Revenue Service's electronic filing program, taxpayers can visit www.irs.gov, which also contains information on how qualified taxpayers can file their taxes online for free.

Even if you are not eligible for direct deposit, waiting for a check in the mail is almost always better than paying the outrageous loan fees associated with refund anticipation loans.

In fact, issues regarding these loans have begun to concern the IRS to such a degree that it announced it is considering prohibiting tax return preparers from offering these refund anticipation loans.

"For now, it's up to consumers to beware of these potentially dangerous 'instant refunds' that require them to pay high sums just to borrow their own money for a few days or weeks," said McAuliffe.

Wilson's performance sells 'Drillbit'

Movie restricts Apatow formula

By JEFFREY WESTHOFF
sldetracks@nwnewsgroup.com

With his laconic attitude, Owen Wilson has a talent for making dumb material funny. That talent serves him greatly in "Drillbit Taylor."

Wilson's title character becomes a hero to three high school geeks — Wade (Nate Hartley), Ryan (Troy Gentile) and Emmitt (David Dorfman) — who hire him to protect them from a fearsome school bully (Alex Frost). The boys think Drillbit is an ex-Army Ranger.

He's really a homeless guy who lives in a park overlooking the Santa Monica freeway.

If this sounds a little like 1980's "My Bodyguard," the filmmakers cheekily acknowledge their debt when that movie's star, Adam Baldwin, appears as one of the bodyguards the boys audition.

His comment to his would-be employers: "This is the stupidest idea I've ever heard."

While often amusing, "Drillbit Taylor" is the slightest project yet to come from Judd Apatow's production company, the team that suddenly dominates movie comedy.

Apatow only produces "Drillbit," and his frequent collaborator Seth Rogen ("Knocked Up" star "Superbad" co-writer) co-wrote it with "Beavis and Butt-head" veteran Kristofor Brown.

The weakness of "Drillbit Taylor" flows from its director, Steven Brill, who directed a pair of painful Adam Sandler vehicles, "Little Nicky" and "Mr. Deeds," as well as such formulaic low-brow comedies as "Ready to Rumble" and "Without a Paddle."

The best of the Team Apatow comedies tweak their formulas or toss them aside.

"Drillbit Taylor" is shackled to its formula.

The film is at its worst in the scenes that exist only to advance the standard plot of a con man who becomes too friendly with his marks.

Such scenes are badly paced and awkward, as if the actors can't say their stilted dialogue fast enough to get back to a place they can ad lib.

The plot is haphazardly constructed, too.

Drillbit eventually decides to watch over his employers by infiltrating their school as a substitute teacher, Dr. Illbit.

Wilson is hilarious as he takes charge of the teachers' lounge and falls for the English teacher played by Leslie Mann (another Apatow regular, probably because she's his wife).

But Drillbit's career as a fraudulent teacher occurs too late in the to fully exploit its comic potential.

Even though it has more flaws than most Team Apatow pictures, "Drillbit Taylor" shares their gregarious nature.

The three nerds (who superficially resemble the central "geeks" of Apatow's radiant TV show "Freaky and Geeks") are touching as well as funny, with gangly newcomer Hartley in particular showing latent strengths beneath his vulnerability.

And of course the cast is led by the enormously likable Wilson, who tosses off words of slacker nonsense as if they came to him from Solomon. He's more likely to quote Steven Seagal, though.

The punches thrown in the PG-13 "Drillbit Taylor" are surprisingly brutal, and if you're hoping the story doesn't end in a violent showdown with the bully, you've come to the wrong place.

That's one part of the formula the filmmakers wouldn't dare change.

But in the end Wilson sells it with his offbeat complaints, as he so often does.

Second Wayne's Pizza Opens: More Of A Good Thing

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

Wayne's Pizza has been the place to go for pizza in the Third Lake/Grayslake area for the past 20 years. Now father and daughter, Wayne and Jessica Dayment, have teamed up to open another location at 333 Route 45 in Lindenhurst.

Jessica said they've been busy selling the same great pizza since opening their doors on December 15. "Dad's recipes are very good. He took a long time perfecting them," she said. She added that her father has been making pizza for 30 years.

Twenty-one year old Jessica brings enthusiasm to the business, as well as 7 years experience working in her father's restaurant. She and the staff were warm and engaging, and the service was quick.

Wayne's has thin crust, "double-decker", and pan pizza. The thin crust, cheese and pepperoni pizza I tried had a generous amount of fresh pepperoni sandwiched between two layers of melted cheese; the sauce had a satisfying punch.

The restaurant also has a full menu that includes hot dogs, hamburgers, sandwiches, appetizers, and even dinners. "People really like our homemade Italian beef and our spaghetti," Jessica noted. Prices are very reasonable. For example, a 21 shrimp dinner with French fries and coleslaw is only $5.95.

And don't forget dessert. Wayne's has soft serve ice cream and 8 flavors of hand-packed ice cream all year round. So try a shake or sundae and enjoy a bit of summer.

In addition to carry out and delivery, the new Wayne's Pizza has a fun dining area with seating for 40. The space has the feel of a 1950s diner, with stainless steel dinettes and vintage photos on the walls. The red, white, and black color scheme echoes this theme, along with model cars and a Coke machine from the period. The dining area is ideal for birthday parties and team get-togethers.

Wayne's Pizza also has a variety of catering packages to make your event a success no matter where the location. All their "party packages" are ready to heat and eat. Select from baked mostaccioli, Italian sausage, Italian meatballs, and Italian beef. Again, prices are reasonable. For example, a half tray of mostaccioli serves up to 12 people for only $21.95.

Jessica said they hope to open more locations in the future. Here's to their continued success because you can never get too much of a good thing.

Making their voices heard with each bark, meow

Alright, here's some chicken soup for the cat- and dog-lover's perusal.

My cats are two of the funniest carbon-based life forms I know.

Just think of this as your cat and dog-tionary.

Counterintelligence agent: A cat who thinks if she stands really still upon being discovered on the kitchen counter, she can continue her surveillance operation without being hassled.

Dramatic paws: The interpretive dance dogs perform when someone new enters the premises.

Felidian killer death grip: Front paws wrapped around object; back paws poised for shredding.

Mutt ado about nothing: The barking chorus that chases a runner on the sidewalk for the length of a fence.

Meow mix: The "music" produced when your cat attacks your record or CD player.

Roverachieve: A dog that participates in dog agility competitions.

Tunar: A cat's ability to hear tuna on the way home from the grocery store.

Whine-tasting: An extracurricular activity for dogs with a taste for human food.

Terrierized: When a small dog won't let go of your pant leg.

Jean-Clawed Van Damme maneuver: A cat's ability to land on a rail-thin object from a height of 10 feet.

Candemonium: This is the ruckus that ensues when a human opens a can or package of anything. Cats and dogs think that, given enough howling and pacing, a can of kidney beans will turn to tuna or Alpo.

Catouflage: Blinds, drapes or bedskirts that hide everything but the cat's tail.

Cat-like reflects: Cats who check themselves out in the mirror.

Eufuria: The effects of catnip or rawhide.

Screen tester: The 9-1/2-pound cat who insists on climbing the screen door only to find herself stranded.

Sniffy: Describes any item that should and must be sniffed.

Snout Scout: The muzzle that appears on the kitchen table, sniffing for a forgotten sandwich.

• I know there are more out there that I've missed. If any readers would like to suggest their cat and dog-tionary words, e-mail them to jthompson@nwnewsgroup.com.

Time to park on the couch

A comfortable couch and a remote can be dangerous this time of year. There is that tendency to turn on the high-def at about 11 a.m. and not move for, oh, seven, eight, nine hours.

So many games, so many channels, so many experts, so many options. So much basketball to watch.

(Yeah, I know, it's a tough life. But I call it research. There are brackets to be filled out Monday, after all.)

So, for three days now, it's been the same ritual - sit on couch, grab remote and every few minutes find a different channel, a different game, a different conference. It's easy to understand why this nation has such a short attention span.

So please, come channel surf with me for a few minutes and see which parts have you nodding your head in agreement and see which ones have you ready to fire your remote at me.

Try to keep up. Like channel changing, there are quick and inexplicable changes.

If you stare at the sun too long, you'll go blind. Same thing with watching the Big Ten. It's more ultimate fighting than basketball. You like teams getting put in transition, playing end-to-end basketball, watch the Big East or the Pac-10. You like shooters, watch the Atlantic Coast Conference. You like athletes, watch the Big 12. You like turnovers and six-player pileups diving after a loose ball, watch the Big Ten.

The slow, methodical, nap-inducing style makes it easily the least interesting basketball. Basketball, when played well, is the most aesthetically pleasing sport to watch, a beautiful dance played out over 94 feet. Except in the Big Ten, where ballet meets brass knuckles.

Not saying the teams all are bad; Wisconsin can make a run deep in the NCAA tournament. And the Big Ten easily has the best collection of coaches in the country. But when the score is routinely 7-5 with 8 minutes gone by in the first half, it's time to jump for the remote.

The word "bubble" might be the most overused word in the English language come March.

It used to be close with "mid-major" and "Cinderella." But now, it's no contest.

The past few days have exposed the weaknesses of North Carolina's all-everything forward Tyler Hansbrough. Yes, he hit the game-winner along the baseline to beat Virginia Tech in the ACC championship game.

Warm up to a new season

Lake County baseball programs prepare for 2008 play

ANTIOCH

Coach: Paul Petty
Last year: 17-19 overall, NSC record not available

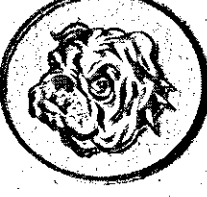

Conference play is on Antioch coach Paul Petty's mind.
"We just have to do better in conference," he said.
The Sequoias have a mix of players this season with five seniors, 13 juniors and a freshman making up the roster.
To help boost that conference performance, Petty will turn to senior Jim Fracek, P/3B, and Jeff Baird, P, along with juniors Logan Kent, C/Util., and Andy Denna, Util.
In addition to winning the North Suburban Conference, Petty also has high hopes for his team in the post-season.
"Postseason play we're a team that has a good shot," Petty said.
Because of colder weather this time

CARMEL

Coach: Chuck Gandolfi
Last season: 31-6 overall, 15-3 ESCC

Baseball coach Chuck Gandolfi and the Corsairs just missed winning the East Suburban Catholic Conference last season, but could have a good shot to win it this season with returning players.
"We return a lot of players ... so we should be a pretty strong team," Gandolfi said.
Some returning Corsairs to look out for this season will be seniors Jordan

GRANT

Coach: Mike Mizwicki
Last season: 19-25, 11-8 NSC

Mike Mizwicki isn't quite sure what to expect for this season. He and the Bulldogs have only six returning players from last year's team.
Last season they had 13 seniors, which did not allow for many younger guys to get playing time at the varsity.
But Mizwicki is not letting that get him down.
"At big school that's only natural," he said. "I'm hoping that it's a sign we're getting bigger and better."

GRAYSLAKE CENTRAL

Coach: Troy Whalen
Last season: 24-11, 10-5 FVC-Fox

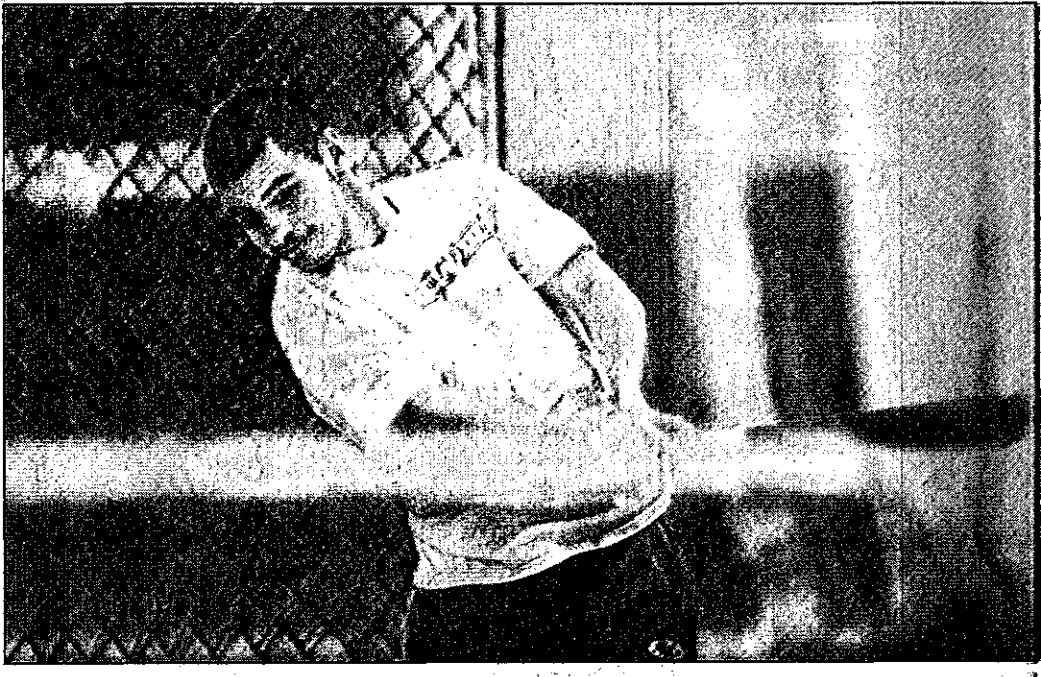

The Rams might have graduated 14 baseball players last year, but that's not stopping Troy Whalen from setting lofty goals for his team.
"We expect to compete once again for another conference title," Whalen.
In addition to winning the Fox Valley Conference, Whalen also would like to finish around the 20-win mark and win regionals and sectionals.
"Our goal is to be one of the last teams playing in the last weekend in the state tournament," he said.

Swing into spring sports

Vince Campanella bats during practice at Warren Township High School last week. Baseball, softball and girls soccer are slated to begin season play this week, pending on the weather. Boys tennis, boys volleyball, and boys and girls track recently began their seasons.

• BASEBALL

To accomplish these goals, Whalen will turn to seniors Matt Schmidt, SS, and Shawn Tobl, OF, along with juniors Kurt Schmidt, 2B, and Kevin O'Rourke, P/OF.

"They got experience on the diamond and they've proven they can do the job," Whalen said.

But he added he doesn't expect anything more out of them than anyone else on the team.

GRAYSLAKE NORTH

Coach: Andy Strahan
Last season: 8-21, 3-12 FVC-Fox

It's the first-ever senior-led baseball team for the Knights. And even though Andy Strahan thinks the Fox Valley Conference, especially the Fox Division, is stacked with talent he is looking for the Knights to be a part of that competition.

"This is our first year with a senior class, so we're looking compete in a level playing field with teams in our conference," Strahan said.

To do that, the Knights are focusing on the little things such as base running and defense. Strahan said the team has been able to do this because of the nice facility they practice in.

Seniors Clay Henriksen, C, Jordan Field, P/1B, and Nick Harrington, P/OF, along with junior Grant Henriksen, P/Util. are some of the expected top performers this year. But Strahan said juniors Vinny Licciardello, OF, Brandon Schroth, P/OF, and Jimmy Butler, C/OF, should put up some big numbers.

Strahan also will turn to seniors Stefan Kalina, 3B, and Tim Elias, SS, and Tim McCann, P/OF, as well as junior Drew Doering, OF, for output.

LAKES

Coach: Mark Tschappat
Last season: 14-22, 7-12 NSC

Mark Tschappat is seeing a lot of improvement in the Eagles this year. The season might not be in full swing and they might not have been able to get outside and practice much, but from what Tschappat has seen, this team has promise.

"I feel good about this year's team... they're more committed to doing the right things," Tschappat said.

Some thing the Eagles have been working on this preseason were running, bunting, and better defense. However, not being able to practice outside has been a huge issue, Tschappat said.

To help make these changes, Tschappat will look to seniors Andrew Highland, SS/P, and Aaron Piekarz, SS, along with junior Tim Ryan, P. Ryan led the team in wins last year and Piekarz hit close to .300, Tschappat said.

ROUND LAKE

Coach: Fred Colon
Last year: 9-22 overall, NSC record not available

Fred Colon is ready to put the Panthers back on the map when it comes to baseball.

In his first year as head coach, Colon is taking a crawl, walk, run approach to Round Lake's program.

"We're breaking them down completely and rebuilding them," he said.

Colon said he has been having players come in at 5:30 a.m. when they have been working on many aspects of the game, including fundamentals.

"Coming in, I've been evaluating the program," he said.

Through that evaluation, Colon is not setting any lofty goals for this season.

"I would have to see what happens," he said. "I expect them to reach their own goals."

Even though Colon has said he is trying to rebuild aspects of the team he is still turning to students for leadership on the field.

Two players he thinks provide that are seniors David Ershock, P/1B, and Nikko Carroll, C.

"I want them to step up and be leaders," Colon said.

WARREN

Coach: Clint Smothers
Last season: 16-16, NSC record not available

After being an assistant coach for the Blue Devils, Clint Smothers is now at the helm of the program. Even though it's Smothers first year in charge, he still wants to be realistic about his goals.

"I'm just hoping we compete," he said.

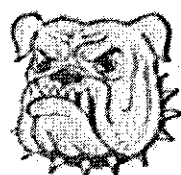

Smothers knows the NSC is a competitive conference, which is why he doesn't want to think too big.

Senior Vince Viverito, OF, has done great job on offense in the past and should be a help to the team this year, as well, Smothers said.

Smothers also is looking to juniors Ryan Economos, SS, Sean Kennedy, P, and Chad Johnson, 3B/P, to help the team be competitive in the NSC.

And the Blue Devils might have an advantage over other schools in the area as they are headed to the Carbondale March 24-27 to play five games over spring break.

"The kids are pretty excited," Smothers said.

WAUCONDA

Coach: Bill Sliker
Last season: 15-16 overall

Bill Sliker saw 13 senior baseball players graduate last season. That might make some coaches nervous to lose that much veteran talent, but that's not the case with Sliker.

That's because he has a lot of confidence in his players this season, and they are all seniors.

Sliker said he is hoping for leadership from Josh Harnett, P/1B, Eric Johnson, 2B, Eric Anstedt, C, Jamey Carey, C, Kevin Matesi, OF, Matt Machon, OF, Brad Shippee, SS, Adam Tagli, OF, and Jimmy Williams.

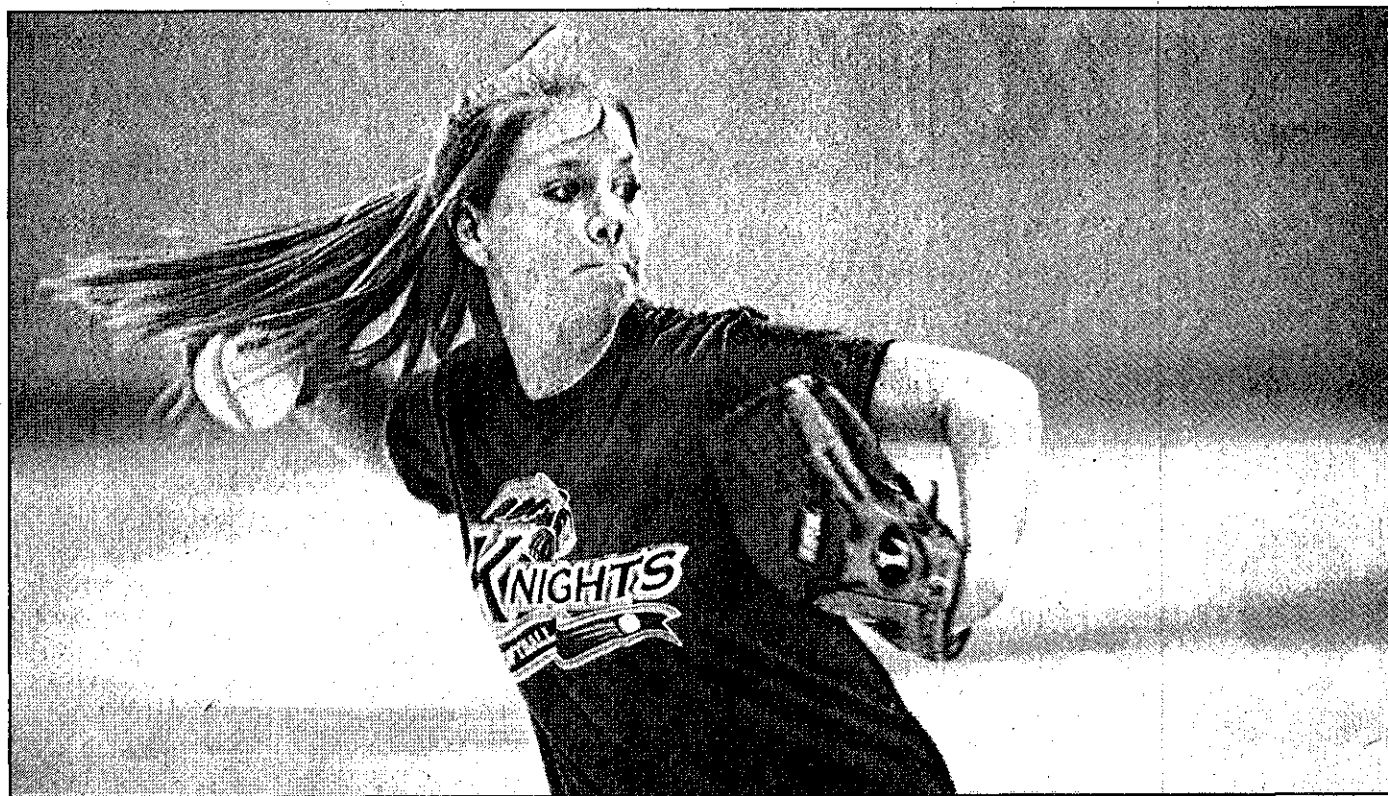

Even though he has a lot of leadership, Sliker said, the team is made up of experience and in-experience.

Because of that and the weather, the team has been conditioning a lot in the preseason and working on the fundamentals.

But Sliker still has one goal in which he wants the team to meet.

"Just get better from the beginning to the end of the year," he said.

Area teams get set to get 2008 season under way

ANTIOCH

Coach: Mary Easton
Last season:

Editor's note: Mary Easton could not be reached for comment on the Sequoits' season preview capsule, but Lakes coach Tia Martinez said she expects Antioch to be a tough competitor this season.

CARMEL

Coach: Jason Raymond
Last season: 21-16, 6-10 ESCC

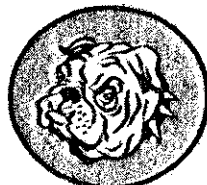

Coach Jason Raymond and the Corsairs have a lot to live up to when looking back to last season. They might have finished sixth in conference, but they also were sectional champs.

A lot of last year's team is returning, including star pitcher Rachel Tact who had 19 wins last year, three shut outs, and a no hitter.

One area Raymond is looking to fill is leadership, but he says the talent is there.

"Our talent is as good if not better," he said.

That talent includes seniors Kelly Gerli, C, Kelly Cook, SS, and Caitlin Hendricks, Util.

GRANT

Coach: Mike Dolezal
Last season: 22-10 overall, 9-3 NSC-Prairie

"A lot of question marks."

That is what is going on right now for Bulldogs softball coach Mike Dolezal.

Dolezal said the team lost a lot of players this season to last year's graduation and he's not sure what to expect for this season.

Players who will try to help answer some of Dolezal's question marks will be seniors Heather Ruetsche, P, Jamie Swanson, 1B/OF, along with junior C.J. Hill, C, and sophomore Briana Brugioni, P.

GRAYSLAKE CENTRAL

Coach: Abbey Tadelman
Last season: 11-20 overall, 7-8 FVC-Fox

Abbey Tadelman might be in her first year as varsity softball coach with the Rams, but she already has a history with this season's team. Tadelman was the sophomore softball coach last season for the Rams, and that should bode well for the young team.

"I have a good relationship with them," Tadelman said.

The team is mainly made up of juniors, which results in some inexperience at the varsity level, Tadelman said.

However, Tadelman still thinks there is a lot of talent on this team.

Among that talent are juniors Monika Wedick, P, Mary Karol, C, Kelly Silver, SS/C/Util., Abbie Goetsch, 1B, Shannon Curtis, OF, Tory Dohm, and Alison Johnson.

"There's been a really great gel," Tadelman said about the team.

Because of that, Tadelman said she thinks there will be a lot of good things to see on the field.

GRAYSLAKE NORTH

Coach: Stacy Selle
Last season: 10-22, 5-10 FVC-Fox

The Knights have improved a lot, Stacy Selle, Grayslake North softball coach said.

"I expect us to finish at the top of our conference," she said.

Coming off of a 22-loss season, it sounds like a hard task. But Selle has confidence in this growing program along with the players who have helped build it.

Among those players will be juniors Carly Borders, P, Sam Fletcher, SS, and senior Amanda Leon, OF.

One thing that has given Selle hopes for this season is the work the team has done when it comes to hitting, which is where the Knights struggled last season.

With its first group of seniors, Grayslake North is ready to make some noise in the Fox Valley Conference.

LAKES

Coach: Tia Martinez
Last season: 13-21 overall, NSC record not available

There are many young softball teams in Lake County this season and the Eagles are no exception. Lakes will have just three returning seniors on its roster.

Because of this, softball coach Tia Martinez thinks the success of the season will depend on how quickly the team gets together and finds a way to work together.

Martinez is setting what hopes are obtainable goals for this season such as .500 record and one that shouldn't be too hard to guess.

"A team goal is to beat Antioch," Martinez said.

To help obtain these goals, Martinez will turn to senior Hannah Karstedt, 3B/OF, and

ROUND LAKE

Coach: Kristin Vogt
Last season: 5-29, NSC record not available

The Panthers will try to rebound from a five-win season they had last year, but softball coach Kristin Vogt thinks the team will be able to.

"It's the most athletic team I've had in the last four years," Vogt said.

One of those athletic players is senior Karla Muldowney, who will be leading the pack, Vogt said.

To help make the team more athletic Vogt said she has been working on fundamentals and learning more about the game.

With this work, Vogt said, she hopes the Panthers will be able to double their conference wins from last season. They had only three.

WARREN

Coach: Carri Nichols
Last season: 16-18, 10-9 NSC

With nine returning players, the Blue Devils softball coach Carri Nichols is hoping the team will be able to win regionals and advance in the state tournament.

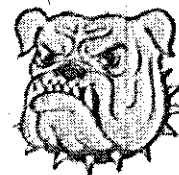

She also would like the team to have an above .500 record.

Nichols will turn to senior Jenna Anderson, C, to help with this goal.

"Jenna brings a lot of good qualities to our program," Nichols said.

In addition to Anderson, the team will have junior Sam Berripos, P, and sophomores Sarah Clauser, Util., and Alex Booker, OF/Util.

The Blue Devils will have an edge on some teams in Lake County as they head to Tampa, Fla. during spring break to play five games. So far many teams have canceled games because of weather.

The madness nevers stops in March

• SIDELINES

Still, the whistle was not blowing in Hansbrough's favor as much during the first two days of the ACC Tournament.

And when the whistle doesn't blow, when officials let opponents be more physical with Hansbrough instead of sending him to the line over and over and over, it's clear his game still needs polish.

He can't just put his head down and draw fouls if the referee doesn't constantly blow the whistle to bail him out.

Still, the hype is right in one regard.

Nobody plays harder.

What's the deal with theme songs about each conference to lead into and out of commercials?

Some are hip-hop, some seem like ballads.

All are bad.

Illinois has had a rough year.

I haven't been shy to remind people of that over and over.

And although this run in the Big Ten Tournament has been nice and might result in a shocking berth in the NCAA tournament, what should be more pleasing is that the Fighting Illini might have an actual talent in Demetri McCamey.

For so long they've hoped Brian Randle or Shaun Pruitt or Chester Frazier would develop into strong players. It never happened.

But McCamey, a 6-foot-3 freshman guard, scored 26 points in the overtime upset against Purdue.

He can shoot and go to the basket.

He can make the big shot.

Teams need go-to players, and Illinois hasn't had one since Dee Brown and Deron Williams exited.

Don't try to predict what happens in March.

Don't.

Don't.

Don't.

It's just not possible, so don't even bother.

For evidence, see my blog.

Can CBS analyst Billy Packer at least act like he enjoys his job?

Tiger Woods is in a tie for the lead at the Arnold Palmer Invitational?

How did that happen? Sorry, the remote has a mind of its own sometimes.

When the NCAA tournament seeds were announced, UCLA and North Carolina were handed direct passes to the Final Four.

Neither will have to leave their home states on either of the first two weekends.

Maybe Illinois was better off with Jon Scheyer deciding to go to Duke.

The best part of all this? It starts all over again today.

Get comfortable.

For a form or other questions, call Jon Baffico, Carmel boys basketball coach, at 847-388-3402.

Checks should be made payable to Carmel Catholic High School.

The tentative schedule is as follows:

April 13: 5-6 p.m. evaluation drill work; 6-7 p.m. evaluation games

April 20: 5-7 p.m. league games

April 27: 5-7 p.m. league games

May 4: 5-7 p.m. league games

May 18: 5-7 p.m. league tournament and awards

Last chance

North American Youth Sports still has openings in its annual spring youth basketball tournament at Elmhurst College. The tournament is on April 18 to 20.

The tournament will feature 10 brackets. The following are those brackets: fifth-sixth grade boys; fifth-sixth grade girls; seventh grade boys; seventh grade girls; eighth grade boys; eighth grade girls; ninth-10th grade boys; ninth-10th grade girls; 11th-12th grade boys; and 11th-12th grade girls.

All grades are based on the grade in which a student is enrolled. Awards will be presented in each bracket.

Entry fee for this tournament is $120 and guarantees each team a minimum of two games.

Deadline for entry is March 28.

For more information, call 866-352-5915 or tournament director March Scherer at 630-617-3147.

Cut home energy bills with hybrid technology

(NewsUSA) - Keeping the indoor temperature of a home properly regulated is a high priority for most homeowners. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, as much as half of all energy consumed in American homes is used for heating and cooling purposes. Given this information, the purchase of an energy-efficient furnace can significantly reduce a homeowner's monthly utility bill.

While at first it may seem like the phrase "energy efficient" is all encompassing, the truth is that not all energy-efficient systems are created equal. Before investing in a system that will heat their home for years to come, consumers should spend time researching various heating and cooling systems - as well as the impact they may have on monthly utility bills.

The following tips will help you pick out the right heating and cooling system for your needs:

- Look for the Energy Star seal. A heating and cooling system that has earned the Energy Star seal has proven its abilities to save on energy costs.
- Select the right size. When it comes to home heating and cooling, bigger is not necessarily better. Oversized equipment will operate in short run cycles, which don't allow the unit to reach efficient operation and remove humidity from the air - resulting in an uncomfortable home. A quality contractor will be able to determine the right size system.

- Explore hybrid technology. Today's hybrid systems are equipped to select the most efficient heating fuel based on conditions and to automatically switch back as conditions change. This powerful technology leads the way in energy savings. The Hybrid Heat Dual Fuel system by Carrier, for example, heats at a lower cost than any gas furnace currently available.

- Upgrade your thermostat. One of the easiest ways to control comfort and your utility bills is to install a programmable thermostat. The International Builders Show features a number of innovative thermostats with cutting-edge capabilities each year. The Edge thermostat by Carrier can be configured with an expansion port enabling the homeowner to adjust temperature settings away from home.

- Service your heater. Finally, once a high-efficiency system is installed, make sure to have it regularly serviced to ensure an optimal operating efficiency. For additional information on home heating and cooling systems, visit www.carrier.com.

Your credit score: A home improvement power tool

What's the most powerful tool you can employ in your home improvement project? It's not a great contractor, creative architect or even a lot of do-it-yourself know-how.

"Your good credit score is a powerful tool for achieving your home improvement objectives," says Maxine Sweet, vice president of public education for Experian. "Your credit score can impact the financing you need to pay for your home improvement project."

If you're considering a home improvement project this year, the first step to accomplishing it should be to make sure your finances are in order. A recent Experian-Gallup survey indicates that most people know their credit rating is important, and 19 percent actually say their happiness depends on it. A third of those surveyed said they intend to take steps this year to improve their credit rating.

Next, set the budget and scope of your project. What exactly do you want to achieve and how much are you willing and able to spend for it? Are you refurbishing your kitchen to improve resale value? Or adding a room for your growing family? Know what it will cost to reach your goal and take steps to ensure you can stay within your budget.

Once you know how much money you'll need, you can explore your financing options.

Some popular financing tools include home equity lines of credit (HELOC) and bank loans. A HELOC allows you to borrow against the equity you already have in your home but with the flexibility of a credit card; you can draw the money as you need it up to your approved amount. A traditional second mortgage can provide you with all the funds in a lump sum up front. In many cases, the interest on both may be tax deductible. Do your research and consult several mortgage professionals before deciding which product is right for you.

Before you apply for any financing, be sure to check your credit report and score for free with enrollment in Triple Advantage at www.FreeCreditReport.com.

If you have some blemishes on your credit report, try following these steps to better stay on top of your credit situation:

- * Pay your bills on time. Delinquent payments and collections could potentially have a strong negative impact on a score.

- * Keep balances low on credit cards and other revolving credit. High outstanding debt could lower a score.

- * Apply for and open new credit accounts only as needed.

- * Pay off debt rather than moving it around. Also don't close unused cards as a short-term strategy to raise your score. Owing the same amount, but having fewer open accounts may lower your score.

WAUCONDA - The village of Wauconda-led effort to gain a Safe Routes to School Grant has netted a grant of more than $40,000.

Gov. Rod Blagojevich announced that Wauconda is one of the winners of $8.3 million in funding for 112 statewide programs. Wauconda is one of 61 communities to receive a Safe Routes to School Grant (SRTS), and the village's total is $43,647.

The funds will help provide safer travel to students through infrastructure improvements, speed reduction signage, and educational programs focused on promoting safer walking and biking.

Led by the village of Wauconda, The Safe Routes plan and application was a collaborative effort that included input and support from Wauconda Park District, Advocate Good Shepherd Hospital, Wauconda Community District 118 and its department of transportation, and PTO representatives.

Wauconda President Sal Saccomanno praised the teamwork shown to win the grant.

"When we began this application process in 2007, our goal was to submit projects that would create a safer walking and biking environment for kindergarten to eighth grade students. I would like to thank the entire community for participating, from the parent surveys to the support of key agencies; we could not have done the planning without their input," Saccomanno said.

Totalling about $23 million, the grants are the first of three years of funding that will be provided by Illinois Department of Transportation under the nationwide Safe Routes to School Program. The village is prepared to submit projects for the next round of funding.

"At this time, three of the nine projects were approved for SRTS funding, but we still have important projects on the table. We are determined to receive additional funding with the 2008 application so we can implement these projects," Wauconda Assistant to the Administrator Linda Krajniak said.

Key elements of the Safe Routes program include: education, engineering, encouragement, enforcement and evaluation. The planning process promotes partnerships between local officials, the schools, transportation professionals, police, health advocates and the community.

How to sell your home in a tight market

The housing market has gotten off to a rocky start in 2008 and American homeowners are wondering what the future has in store for the real estate market.

With more than 4.2 million homes currently on the market and more to come as spring "selling season" arrives, home prices are falling to entice buyers to get off the sidelines. Buyers, of course, are drawn to houses offering the best deal for the money.

With home prices threatening to go lower or, at best, remain unchanged, many home sellers are concerned about selling their home for less than it was worth just a year or two ago. Add to that the fact that real estate agents typically eat up five to six percent of a home's sale price, and that's even less money that will go to the seller.

This probably explains why many sellers are choosing to forgo working with an agent and save on commission, allowing them to price their homes more competitively. There are now more people using ForSaleByOwner.com, the nation's largest Web site for these home sellers, than at any other time in the company's history.

There's big money to be saved. An analysis performed by the company found that real estate agents and brokers collected $55 billion in commissions in 2007, an average of $13,900 per home sold. People like Joseph De Luca of Enfield, Conn., question the wisdom of paying so much when, with a little effort, he could do the job himself and save thousands of dollars.

"An agent is going to market the home by putting a yard sign out front, posting an ad on the Internet and holding a few open houses. Why pay a five or six percent commission when I can do that myself," asks De Luca.

Instead of spending thousands on an agent, he invested $249 to market his three-bedroom home on ForSaleByOwner.com. DeLuca's listing package included a guidebook to selling your own home, and other resources to walk him through the entire real estate process. He also received a ForSaleByOwner.com yard sign that signaled potential buyers to view his home on the Internet, and a home valuation report that compared his home to others in the area and gave him market information so that he could price his home accurately.

De Luca noticed that similar homes in his neighborhood were listed at more than $340,000 and hadn't moved. Figuring that he was saving on commissions, he sold his house for $335,000 within 45 days. Had he gone with a commissioned agent, it would have had to sell for $355,000 in order for him to pocket the same amount. "I'll never use a real estate agent again," De Luca proudly says.

Another ForSaleByOwner.com customer, Bruce Brandywine of Tampa, Fla., attracted a buyer who saw his online ForSaleByOwner.com property ad and toured it during an open house that he hosted himself. "Who knows my home and can possibly explain its features and attributes better than myself?" he asked rhetorically. To close the deal and give him piece of mind that nothing was overlooked, he hired a real estate attorney to handle all of the necessary paperwork.

Brandywine is not the only one choosing to skip the "middleman." ForSaleByOwner.com estimates that For Sale by Owner sellers saved almost $9 billion in home value during 2007.

"The real estate market is expected to be tough for at least the first half of 2008, so we expect more people will avoid using a commissioned agent in order to price their home competitively and save more of their home's value," says Eric Mangan, director of consumer relations at ForSaleByOwner.com.

Consumers Credit Union unveils newly remodeled office

Ribbon Cutting marks extensive changes to Waukegan branch

WAUKEGAN - The extensive remodeling project at Consumers Credit Union's (CCU) Waukegan office is completed and the Grand Re-Opening Celebration begins! The office now features innovative technology and a more spacious waiting area. New features include a concave teller line, a children's area, private offices and hi-tech 46 inch televisions to provide the very latest credit union information about promotions, rate specials, current events, weather, stocks and other news.

"The Grand Re-opening of our Waukegan office kicks off a month-long celebration," noted Sean M. Rathjen, CCU President.

"Consumers Credit Union will commemorate the occasion with a ribbon-cutting ceremony on March 19, followed by an all-day Open House for Members and a "Business After Hours" starting at 5:00 pm for our friends in the business community. We invite everyone - Members and non-Members alike - to stop in and see the beautifully remodeled office."

CCU opened the doors with a ribbon cutting ceremony at the Waukegan office at 9 am Wednesday, March 19. Waukegan Mayor Dick Hyde, Lake County Chamber of Commerce President Lou Molitor, Kathy Fontana, Chairman of the Waukegan Chamber of Commerce, CCU Chairman Jim Mahnich, CCU President Sean Rathjen, Waukegan Branch Manager Sandra Ranchero, and other local leaders and credit union officers assisted with the festivities. Employees welcome Members and non-members throughout the day with a free gift, cookies and coffee to help celebrate the occasion.

All five CCU offices join in the celebration by offering Members a $50 gas card for vehicle loans of $10,000 or more. Everyone who obtains a first mortgage from CCU during the celebration receives a $300 CCU Gift Card as a housewarming present. There are also specials just at the Waukegan office, including a 25 basis-point increase in certificates of deposit (CDs). CCU will waive the $5 Association fee for all new Members joining at the Waukegan office during the Grand Re-Opening festivities, and deposit the first $5 in their Share Savings Account, too.

When Members open any of these products during the Grand Re-Opening Celebration, employees will fill out an entry form qualifying Members for that week's drawing. A total of four (5) drawings will be conducted; one each week, with a $500 Grand Prize drawing scheduled for Saturday, April 19. CCU also has a series of special events lined up each Saturday during the celebration, with special guests and live radio broadcasts. Chicago Bears kicker Robbie Gould is the guest on Saturday, March 22.

For more information about the grand re-opening of the Waukegan office, contact Sean Rathjen, CCU President, at 847.782.4670. Consumers Credit Union is Member-owned, with offices in Waukegan, Gurnee, Mundelein, Round Lake Beach, North Waukegan, and online at www.myconsumers.org.

FHA: Old mortgage program finding new life

The sky is falling, the sky is falling! Or so you would think if you listened to all the news coverage about the mortgage market. The news is filled with reports of declining home values, resetting adjustable-rate mortgages and people feeling the pinch of tightened credit.

However, despite the doom and gloom, much of the media haven't reported on the proverbial silver linings in the storm clouds. One of the bright spots is the resurgence in popularity of a loan program that has been around since the 1930s — the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) loan.

Historically used almost exclusively by consumers to purchase their first home because of its low down payment requirements and competitive rates, FHA loans are making a comeback and quickly gaining prominence among those looking to refinance as well.

"A large number of people are really benefiting from the FHA loan program, and what is most interesting is many of them have just recently been turned down for more traditional conventional loans," says Bob Walters, chief economist for Quicken Loans, one of the nation's largest mortgage lenders. "This program isn't the answer for everyone, but we have found that it can be a very viable option for many people."

According to Walters, FHA loans are being used by consumers for cash-out refinancings, or to consolidate debt up to 95 percent of the home's value — moves that are extremely difficult and often not financially practical to make with current conventional lending guidelines.

"Through the first half of 2007, homeowners had no problem making their mortgages work for them. However, since that time, tighter lending guidelines have resulted in many loan programs being taken off the table. Fortunately, FHA loans can fill some of the void. When used responsibly, FHA loans can provide much-needed relief. Every day, we help clients purchase homes, pay off medical expenses, eliminate high-interest credit card debt and generally improve their financial position through the FHA program," Walters adds.

Consumers are also finding that in some instances, FHA loans can close very quickly, in less than 14 business days in some cases.

"The bottom line is that FHA loans are an option for many folks, but not for everyone. It is very important that every homeowner consult with a reputable lender who will listen to their needs and goals, and then suggest the best mortgage for them. What is important is that the loan actually works for the consumer and puts them in the best possible financial position," Walters concludes.

A cost-effective way to add more living or work space

There's no slowing down Mary Cordes of Hayden Lake, Idaho. The 85-year-old recently came out of retirement only two years after ending her life-long career. "I closed down the art gallery and framing shop I had run for 25 years back in 2006, thinking it was time to retire, but retirement just didn't agree with me," she says. "I went stir crazy."

So she decided to open a new art gallery on a smaller scale. It was originally supposed to go up in her backyard, but instead ended up on the site where her old home once stood. "I used to live in a house on beautiful Lake Coeur d'Alene, but it burned down in 2005. We were planning to rebuild, but then my husband died and it became too much for me to handle on my own, so I changed my plans."

Before the fire, she had planned to set up a backyard pottery studio next to the lake inside a yurt — a portable, tent-like structure with circular lattice walls and a cone-shaped roof supported by rafters that meet a center ring. But with the house and her husband gone, she decided to make it into something more: an art studio/gallery where local artists, including herself, would be able to gather, customers could come to find unique pieces, and everyone could enjoy the scenery.

The majority of people who purchase a yurt are putting them on vacation properties and some in remote areas where they were only going to be used for a portion of the year. However, Mark Altmann of Rainier Industries, a leading manufacturer of yurts, indicates that recently there have been a lot of people buying them to expand living space instead of adding on to their homes. Among the more common uses for yurts: as a guest house, home office, secluded spa enclosure, art, music or fitness studio.

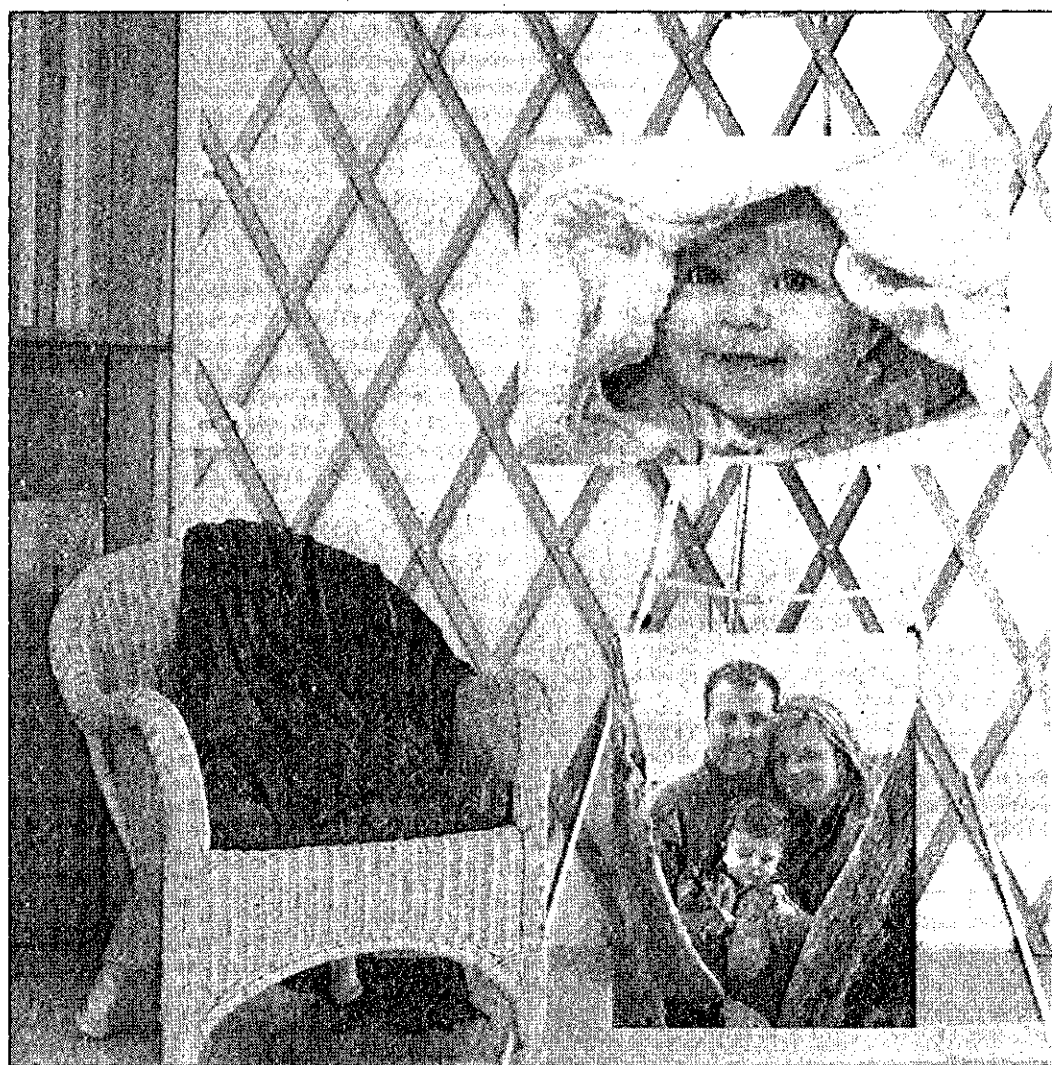

"They make a lot of sense from a cost savings perspective," says Altmann. "Starting at just $5,500 for a 16-foot structure, they are an affordable alternative for people who want to add living space, but are on a tight budget." The average home addition now costing upwards of $78,000, according to Remodeling Magazine's 2007 Cost vs. Value Report.

Cordes spent about $15,000 on the Eagle Yurt she purchased from Rainier in late 2007. The structure is 30-feet in diameter, which offers plenty of room for her gallery. "I got help from my son and we got the structure up in November right before the snow came," she says. "As soon as the snow melts and temperatures warm up, we're going to add on a deck overlooking the lake, and an entryway. I'm also going to move in the easels and partisans where the artwork will be put on display." Cordes plans to open her new business in the late spring or early summer.

In a down market, just add color

When it comes to your home's exterior, color is currency. With millions of homes across the country currently on the market, smart homeowners are differentiating their houses and wowing potential buyers with color - from the roof all the way down to the landscaping.

"Fortunately, you don't have to resort to beige siding and basic black shingles to play it safe when it comes to exterior color," says Leslie Segrete, co-host of the Money Pit home improvement radio show. "Contrast can be tastefully done with the home's enduring architectural elements, while bold or trendy can be reserved for elements that are more easily changed, like landscaping."

Whether you're planning to sell your home in this highly competitive market, or just create a classic look you'll enjoy for years to come, here are some things to keep in mind when adding color to create curb appeal.

From the Top Down

Homeowners might not think of their roof as a part of the overall aesthetic of their home, but it is one of the first things a prospective buyer sees. A roof can account for as much as half of your home's exterior, yet is an often-overlooked design opportunity. "A new roof is certainly a selling point for a house, but an interesting new roof - one that makes a statement with color or design - can really help pump up curb appeal and enjoyment," Segrete says.

Color choices in asphalt shingles have been expanding in recent years, and it's no longer necessary to resort to costly, exotic materials - like tile or slate - to create a character-filled look. You can add elegance or whimsy by creating patterns with splashes of color outlined in a contrasting color against a conservative background. Owens Corning, America's number one brand of roofing shingles, offers a wide selection of shingle colors that can be used in contrasting colors to create eye-catching designs in your roof shingles.

You can see examples of a diamond motif and download information from the Owens Corning website, www.owenscorning.com/ibs2008.

Color Cues

Color can help sell a house, real estate experts agree, and a poor color choice can alienate your neighbors; not only will it be an eyesore but it can devalue your home and others around it.

According to Segrete classic, clean and elegant, white consistently shows up on the top of the list in surveys of Americans' most popular color choices for homes. Earth tones of beige, green, brown or tan usually follow closely in terms of preference. While, historically, the more conservative colors have been popular to Americans, times are changing and homeowners are becoming more adventurous with color. Blues and grays are slightly less popular, but still considered within the range of what's acceptable. Reds and pinks are the least popular, unless, of course, your home has a brick facade or is in a tropical or historic neighborhood.

Whatever color you choose, don't forget that complementary colors and shades can be used to highlight the architectural style of your home.

Darker color blends provide contrast while lighter colors simplify a home's lines and angles and can make the home appear larger. For example, you may be able to get away with lavender on a gingerbread-style Victorian, but the color would be far less appropriate on many of today's modern homes.

Liberty to Landscape

Landscaping is the area where homeowners can have the most versatility - and fun - with color. Because plants are not permanent, it's possible to take risks or make bold statements with color choices. If you don't care for something or your real estate agent advises you to tone down the color scheme, it's relatively easy to redo small landscaping elements.

While you have more wiggle room choosing plant and floral colors, do keep in mind positioning and location, especially for large elements like trees or shrubs. Generally, you want colors near the home that will contrast or complement the color of the house itself, and remember to avoid one of the worst landscaping faux pas - obscuring windows or the front door with large trees or shrubs.

With a little know how, homeowners can easily differentiate their home from the neighbors, and in a down market that can make other sellers green with envy. - Courtesy of ARAcontent

Tips for Boomers planning a 'senior road trip'

Baby boomers, the generation that has defined American culture for decades, are doing it again, rewriting what it means to be senior citizens as the first wave of boomers reach 65. And the generation that enjoyed greater mobility than any before it, is not even close to being ready to give up the car keys.

More Americans 65 and older are on the road than ever before, as still-working and retiring boomers continue to drive for business and pleasure. "Boomers grew up with the concept of the great American road trip, so it's no surprise that as they become seniors they're motoring more than their parents probably did at the same age," says Barry Glick of Traffic.com. "Plus, with their emphasis on health and fighting off old age by remaining active, boomers with a little money and time on their hands are rediscovering the pleasures of driving."

Still, experts say, our driving skills inevitably change as we age. With care and caution, older drivers can adapt to their changing abilities and continue to enjoy one of the most prized elements of the American dream: their driving privileges.

Here are some tips for boomers looking to make the most of their driving enjoyment:

Keep Your Vehicle and Yourself Finely Tuned

Responsible driving calls for two well-cared-for machines - the vehicle and the driver. If you're planning a road trip, make sure your vehicle maintenance is up-to-date. Pay special attention to common problems that can cause roadside breakdowns, such as coolant systems and tire integrity. It's a good idea to get the vehicle serviced before taking it on a long trip.

Likewise, make sure you're in fine tune as well. Have your hearing and vision regularly checked - at least twice a year. If you wear glasses, avoid taking a long driving trip within the first few weeks of getting a new pair; you'll need time to adjust to how the new prescription affects your vision. Be sure you're well rested, not just the night before your trip but for several days prior. Check with your doctor or pharmacist to determine if any medications you're taking might cause fatigue or impair your driving.

Plan and Prepare

No one enjoys sitting in traffic; it's annoying at best. To maximize your driving enjoyment, avoid high-traffic hours and locales where commuters fill the roads. Drive during quieter road times and avoid times when visibility is naturally poorer. Plan to get on the road after the morning rush ends - typically 9 a.m. in most urban areas - and wrap up your day's travels just before the evening rush starts. In most cities or suburbs, that can be as early as 4 p.m.

Pre-plan your route and use resources like Traffic.com to get the most up-to-date traffic information on your course of travel. Log on before leaving home (or your hotel room, since most hotels now offer guests free Internet access) and check driving conditions along your route. You can also access the Traffic.com mobile Web site from your Web-equipped cell phone at <http://mobi.traffic.com>, or by calling the (866) MY-TRAFIC (866-698-7232) traffic hotline.

Be sure to give your planned route and schedule to a family member or friend who'll be staying home. Agree to regular check in times so that someone will always know where you are and how your trip is progressing.

Strength in Numbers

Avoid driving alone whenever possible. Sharing the journey with another driver can help you avoid driving fatigue, and make the trip more enjoyable. Caravanning with one or more other vehicles also enhances the road trip experience and you'll have a back-up vehicle in case of emergency. - Courtesy of ARAcontent

'Clear To Drive' campaign educates motorists on the dangers of drowsy driving

Drowsy driving can put anyone at risk for an accident, and NASCAR Sprint Cup driver Carl Edwards wants to make sure motorists know to stay alert while driving. Edwards, who suffers from allergies, has teamed up with the makers of the non-drowsy allergy medication, CLARITIN, for the "Clear to Drive" campaign. The campaign aims to make sure people know how important it is to read medicine labels to see if there are any warnings about drowsiness before they get behind the wheel.

"As someone who races cars for a living, driver safety is an issue that's important to me, and that's why I'm participating in the 'Clear to Drive' campaign," says Edwards. "When I'm driving at 180 miles per hour, I can't risk taking a medicine that makes me drowsy. I choose CLARITIN because it gives me powerful, non-drowsy relief from my worst allergy symptoms."

As a spokesperson for the "Clear to Drive" campaign,

Edwards will record a radio announcement to raise awareness about drowsy driving, which can potentially result from taking medicines that may cause drowsiness. The radio announcement will be available on cleartodrive.com - a new Web site that will provide valuable information on safe driving. The site will also feature facts about drowsy driving and tips for preventing this growing problem.

The Dangers of Drowsy Driving

Many drivers don't realize that some common over-the-counter medicines could cause drowsiness. In fact, according to a recent survey, four in 10 Americans (38 %) report that there have been times when they were driving and realized that the medicine they had taken was making them drowsy.

"Taking a medication that may cause drowsiness can put people at risk for nodding off behind the wheel and potentially harming themselves or others," says Marjorie Slankard, M.D., clinical professor of medicine at the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. "It's important to carefully read the labels of medications and understand the side effects."

Tips for Preventing Drowsy Driving

- Always remember to check medicine labels, including allergy medicines, for warnings about drowsiness before getting behind the wheel
- Avoid driving if you're feeling drowsy
- Schedule breaks during long trips or arrange for a travel companion
- Get adequate sleep
- Stop driving if you start feeling drowsy behind the wheel

home & garden STYLE

Decorate the home of your dreams

(NewsUSA) - Every year, many proud homeowners sit down to plan out ways to increase the "dream" appeal of their home, a task that will become easier and more exciting with inspiration from the HGTV Dream Home 2008 in Islamorada, Fla. From the bedroom to the kitchen to outdoor areas, every square inch of your home can receive a major facelift by making a few relatively minor changes.

By starting with a simple color, room or memento, you can effortlessly create your dream home. The following tips will help you add some unique charm to your home:

- Use the same color for walls and ceilings. To create a full effect, make sure to paint the ceilings when you paint your walls. Additionally, paint everything the same exact color, saturating your room with one color will create a warm, encapsulating effect.

- Bring nature's decorations indoors. Incorporate items such as pinecones, tree clippings and even cacti into your home to bring a natural flair to any room.

- Group photos in paired frames. Disjointed frames just don't work, so stick with a theme and the same frame finish, whether it's black, white, silver or wood when displaying photos of your loved ones. And don't forget to group color pictures and black and white ones separately.

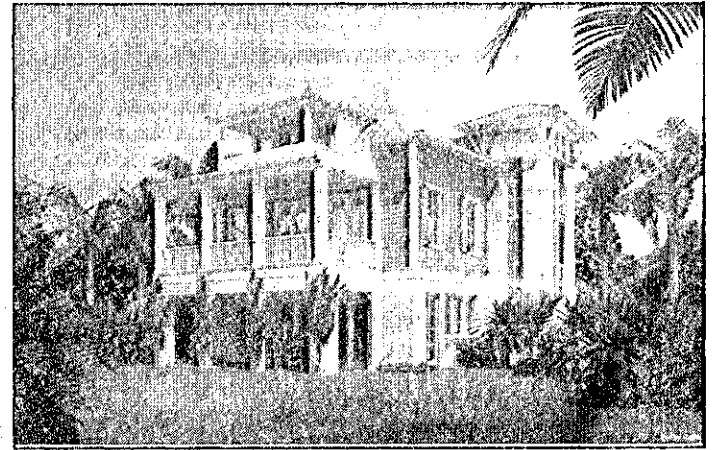

- Design a child's room to grow. Create colors and accessories that can grow with your child's needs and tastes. More subdued colors, such as the sea blue used in the HGTV Dream Home 2008, are great picks.

- Go for faux. Instead of spending thousands of dollars on expensive, natural elements like coral, consider decorating with cheaper, but just as realistic, faux copies made of resin. Not only will you save money, you'll also give nature a break as well.

For more information on this year's HGTV Dream Home Giveaway, visit www.HGTV.com.

Linda Woodrum has served as HGTV's Dream Home interior designer for the past 11 years.

Renew your view with Window Medics

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

A foggy thermal pane window doesn't mean paying up for new glass. Window Medics has a better solution, and at half the cost of glass replacement.

Owner Alan Rosenbaum, who has 18 years experience in the construction business, said the Window Medics process addresses the culprit behind window fogging—moisture caused by "solar pumping".

Heat from sunlight causes the window's glass panels to expand and push air out through the semi-permeable seals; then the window cools in the evening, drawing in moisture-laden air. Eventually, the silica desiccant in every thermal pane window loses the ability to absorb condensation and the window fogs up.

Backed by a 20 year parts and labor warranty, the Window Medics process restores your windows to their original clarity.

Alan said a tiny hole is drilled in a bottom and top corner of the window. Then the window's inside surface is rinsed with an environmentally safe solution and dried out. Next one hole is sealed and a special one-way valve is installed over the other hole. This valve allows moisture to be expelled while keeping new moisture out.

Not only does the Window Medics process save on replacement costs, but also energy costs, since dry air is a much better insulator than wet air. Alan said the Window Medics process could restore "95 to 96% of a window's original R Value."

Window Medics is also able to test your other windows for signs of failure. Windows with accumulated moisture can then be repaired before fogging occurs.

In addition, Window Medics will replace glass, repair or replace screens, and supply that hard-to-find hardware in order to make your window restoration complete. "We want to be your full-service window repair company," Rosenbaum said.
